In rural northwestern Indiana, a year or so after the mother of his six children, ages 1 to 15, died in childbirth in 1916, Preston Patchett, 49, remarried. That death and remarriage may have been the trigger for the three eldest to run amok in the 1920s and 1930s, or maybe failures on the part of Preston. In addition to dealing with their antics, Preston had his own battles to fight.

The drama started with eldest, 17-year-old Paul, leaving unexpectedly in the fall of 1921. He returned at the end of 1922, but left again in the spring to return to Philadelphia to work.

Early in 1924, a man named Dale Knight was found guilty of raping Preston's 15-year-old daughter, Jewell. But in those days, the victim was also suspect. According a Jan 24 Republican report of the trial, "... [S]he is believed to be an incorrigible delinquent as shown by her testimony"¹ Likely based on that perception, Jewell went under care of the sheriff, then on to what could be considered a foster home. She was joined that summer by the eldest Patchett daughter, Fern, 17, after her father attempted suicide.

In the fall, Harold Shannon and Jewell woke a minister for a spontaneous midnight wedding. Whether she was under the care of either the sheriff or a foster family is unknown.

"Additional slime was poured into the Fulton county cess pool Saturday" was the lead in the Nov. 27, 1924 Republican taken from the Rochester (IN) Sentinel.²

About that time, the sheriff was under suspicion of assaulting Jewell the previous May while she was under his care. When the grand jury did not find sufficient evidence to indict the sheriff, Preston filed an affidavit of an assault. Concurrently Preston's eldest daughter, Fern, charged him with incest that previous May, possibly explaining his suicide attempt and Fern joining Jewell.

In January 1925, at Preston's incest trial, Jewell and Fern recanted their sworn allegations against him.

"The Patchetts, it seems can not keep out of the court records of Fulton county."
was the lead in an article in the Mar 26 Republican.³

The charge against Preston was quashed. Jewell and Fern were charged with perjury, assigned counsel, and released on bond posted by their father and others. The recantation also called into question the rape by Dale Knight. A petition to pardon Knight was sent to Gov. Ed Jackson. Knight was paroled two months later after serving over a year in prison for the rape.

By the summer, Jewell and Fern left the area. Jewell had deserted her husband in nearby Kokomo. She and her sister had left with two young men and were living in the southwestern Indiana city of Terre Haute. The young men were arrested on "statutory charges", which was legal jargon for rape at that time. The girls were returned to jail after their bonds were withdrawn.

In a Sep 17, 1925 report in the Democrat, Harold Shannon sued Jewell for divorce due to "much improper conduct", charging that "she was arrested with another man at Terre Haute [and] is now in jail"⁴. In another report, based on their reputation, Jewell and Fern were also suspected of car theft but were exonerated.

"NOT HIS PLAYMATES – One offense of which they had been suspected apparently can not be laid to the door of the much-chronicled Patchett sisters, now guests of the Fulton county jail" was the lead in a Sep 24 Republican item.⁵

Upon return from their Terre Haute adventure, for some unknown reason, Preston provided part of the bond for Jewell and Fern. Curiously, it appears that he had withdrawn bond when it was reported that the girls had skipped off to Terre Haute.

That same summer of 1925 Preston's personal battle started. A train hit them as he was driving his horses and wagon across the track. He was thrown clear, but the wagon and two horses were destroyed. It was reported in the Aug 27 Democrat that, "He is sure his defective hearing brought him near death or serious injury.". It was also reported, "His wagon was piled high with grain, which partially obscured his vision.". ⁶

The end of 1925 found Jewell pregnant and Preston partially paralyzed by a stroke.

1926 started with Jewell and Fern back in jail on their perjury charge. However, Jewell was released temporarily so that she could give her daughter birth in freedom.

Meanwhile, Preston sued the Chesapeake & Ohio (C&O) railroad for $10,000 in personal damages and $600 in property loss due to the collision the previous summer. At the trial, Preston gave a different explanation than the newspaper reports at the time of the accident. He testified that his view was obstructed by an orchard and tall corn and that engineer failed to signal with whistle or bell.

"The Patchetts can't keep out of the limelight, it would seem."
was the lead in a Sep 26 Republican article.⁷

In the heat of summer, an item is published that the wife of Ray "Foxy" Flynn was suing him for divorce, and naming Fern as co-respondent.

In the dead of the following winter, Foxy's body was found along a roadside, murdered. It was reported in the Feb 10 Democrat that it may have been a "hit" to prevent him from "squeaking" about a fur theft, or Foxy might have been killed by Jewell's estranged-husband, Harold Shannon. Foxy had been "exceptionally friendly" with both Fern, who now lived in his house, and Jewell.⁸ [It turned out that Foxy was shot by his intended robbery victim, who then fled. Foxy's gang drove off in the other direction with Foxy, but when they discovered that he had been mortally wounded, tossed his body from their car.]

In May 1927 Preston's only son, Paul, 25, started to appear in the press. He was sentenced to the reformatory after writing bad checks and posing as a federal prohibition agent.

1929 ended with Preston's suit against the C&O resulting in a hung jury. Three months later in March 1930, nearly four years after the accident, Preston sued again for $600 in property loss, but had doubled the ante to $20,000 in personal damages, claiming permanent disability. As 1931 started, Preston was awarded $5,500, but the C&O planned to appeal. He is also a new subscriber to The Democrat.

In the summer 1931, after driving a stolen car from Illinois to Indiana, Paul was sentenced to federal prison but put on probation for five years. The reprieve was sadly short-lived. The year ended with Paul, Jewell, and their gang, jailed for burglary of a railroad freight car. Paul pled guilty but refused to implicate others. Jewell, now carrying the Knight surname, and another gang member were described as "sweethearts"⁹. And she was about to become a mother again.¹⁰

As 1932 started, Paul became a witness for the prosecution, but still faced charges of burglary and auto banditry and was ultimately bound over to serve his two-year federal sentence. Thereafter, his life was no longer newsworthy.

Spring found a man named Steve Knight {any relation to Dale Knight is unknown} granted a divorce from Jewell. And Preston's youngest daughter, Lillian, 26, was arrested for receiving a stolen dress purchased by Jewell. Finally, Preston was sued for not leaving a farm after his lease expired, although the suit was soon dropped.

In January 1934 wedding bells rang for the third time for Jewell. Thereafter, except for a fourth marriage in 1938, her life was no longer newsworthy.

As far as Preston's battle, the previous spring of 1933 brought a loss on appeal for his second suit against the C&O. To add insult, the court put the cost of the case on Preston!

In summer of 1935, Preston sued again, asking for $15,000, but won only $2,550. The C&O then requested a new trial, which Preston lost with the prosecution argument that there was nothing obstructing his view, not grain on the wagon, not the orchard, not tall corn. It had been 11 years since the accident. Likely the original news report in which he cited his defective hearing was raised as well. A month later, Preston requested a new trial, but reports were never published of yet another one.

One year later, in the fall of 1936, Preston was felled by a hit-and-run driver. Earlier in the year, Paul barely survived a crash in which the car rolled several times, and he was dragged from the car by his companion. And Preston is now a subscriber to The Republican.

Almost two years after that, Preston fell from a tree, breaking a hip and ribs.

January 1940 found Preston a broken man, bowed by the antics of his eldest children, his own battle with the C&O, and his recent injuries. Judged insane, Preston was sent to the nearby state mental hospital, where he died that spring at the age of 74. Preston Patchett was buried at the Kewanna Odd Fellows cemetery with a simple marker with his last name misspelled.

PATCHETT LAD AGAIN FAILS TO KISS FOLKS GOOD-BYE

Paul Patchett has left home again. He is the sixteen year old son of Preston M. Patchett, formerly of Kewanna and Winamac, now living on the Robins farm, reports the Kewanna Herald.

This is the second time he has disappeared, the same thing occurring a couple years ago while the family was living near Winamac. At that time his parents heard nothing from him until October, 1922, when he wrote from Philadelphia that he was employed there by an electric concern and would be home around the holidays. He arrived in Rochester on New Year's Day.

This time Paul left a note on the table which said "I will bid you all good-by, as I am going back east." Mrs. Patchett found a railroad map in his room on which he had traced a route to Philadelphia.

PATCHETT GIRL HAS MAN ARRESTED AT ROCHESTER

Dale Knight, a Rochester man thirty years of age, was arrested and jailed there a few nights ago on a charge of rape preferred by Jewell Patchett, fourteen years old, daughter of Preston Patchett, living west of Rochester. The Patchett family formerly lived north of Winamac.

The girl, who has been given considerable publicity recently on account of her having twice run away from home, was seen to go to Knight's room over the Newman restaurant on the corner of Main and Seventh street, and her father was informed of the fact, relates the Rochester Sentinel.

Patchett in turn enlisted the aid of Night Officer Chamberlain and the two went to Knight's room, which had by that time been vacated by Knight and the girl.

The girl was located later, however, and confessed to having been in Knight's room. A formal charge of rape was lodged against Knight and he was taken to jail and placed under $3,000 bond. His case is set for hearing Nov. 20.

The Patchett girl ran away from home on two occasions because of her father's alleged mistreatment. At one time she was located at Kokomo and on the second occasion at Leiters.

Accused rapist to be arraigned

PATCHETT FILED CHARGES

Probably the most sensational trial of the January term of the Fulton circuit court is that of Dale Knight, who will be arraigned for raping 15-year-old Jule Patchett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Preston Patchett, who live in the Burton neighborhood, says the Rochester News. A jury will hear the case. Attorney Albert Chipman of Akron will defend Knight.

Rapist found guilty

PATCHETT GIRL'S TESTIMONY
CONVICTS PERU YOUNG MAN

Dale Knight of Peru was found guilty of rape on fifteen-year-old Jule Patchett Sunday morning at 12:01 o'clock by a jury in the Fulton Circuit Court. The jury was given the case by Judge Carr, Saturday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. The crime of rape on the person of a girl under the age of consent carries with it a sentence of from 5 to 21 years in the state penitentiary. Knight will be sentenced some time this week.

Miss Patchett is a daughter of P. M. Patchett, who formerly lived north of Winamac.

After the verdict had been read to him, Knight said that he would commit suicide rather than serve a sentence of five years in the penitentiary. Knight's every move is being watched to thwart any attempt he may make to carry out his threat.

The crime for which Knight was convicted is supposed to have been committed in Rochester on the night of November 3rd. During the taking of the testimony it developed that Miss Patchett and Knight had been together on several occasions besides the November case. Knight denied all the allegations of Miss Patchett, saying that he had never been with her at any time.

Rapist found guilty

JURY IN FULTON HOLDS KNIGHT IS GUILTY OF RAPE

P. M. PATCHETT, FORMER PULASKI COUNTY MAN FILED CHARGES—15 YEAR OLD GIRL WAS THE VICTIM.

Dale Knight, 31, was found guilty of rape on the person of Jewell, 15 year old daughter of P. M. Patchett, west of Rochester on the night of November 3 last, after the jury that had heard the case last week in the Fulton circuit court had deliberated until midnight Saturday night.

Knight, who came from Peru and was employed by the Rochester Telephone Co., as a lineman at the time of his arrest, has not yet been sentenced. Conviction of the rape charge carries with it a sentence of from five to 21 years in the state prison.

In the meantime the Board of Children's Guardians has taken in hand the case of the girl and it is probable that she will be made a ward of the court as she is believed to be an incorrigible delinquent as shown by her testimony in the Knight trial.

The Patchett family formerly lived in Franklin township, Pulaski county. The offense on which the action was brought was charged as committed last November, the girl's father swearing out the affidavit.

Winamac (IN) Republican 24 Jan 1924: 1. Microfilm.

The Patchett girl told in court how she was pulled along Main street from Wile's to the Fristoe corner on the evening of November 3. The girl stated that Knight had her by the right arm and yanked with all his might, as she with both feet firmly set and sliding along the sidewalk, struck viciously at him with her left hand, according to the Rochester News.

The trip from Fristoe's corner west to Jefferson and thence to the rooming house was somewhat vague but once in the room, Miss Patchett remembered that Knight had an open knife in his right hand and every minute of their stay, while the assault took place, she believed her life to be in danger, as the result of his threats to kill her.

A sweeping denial of all wrong doing, charged by the state was made by the defendant, Dale Knight when placed on the stand in his own defense.

He denied that he ever left the street as he has been charged, and left the girl at the Dawson & Coplen drug store corner fifteen or twenty minutes after he had met her in front of M. Wile & Sons.

Miss Fern Patchett, aged 17, sister of the prosecuting witness was so discomfited and at a loss as to what it was all about that Judge Carr called a halt in her examination and ordered that another witness be called.

Patchett attempts suicide

[Now it's a mystery, but all will be revealed this winter.]

ATTEMPTS SUICIDE WITH STRYCHNINE ON PANCAKE

Another chapter in the tragic life of the Preston Patchett family, well known farmer people living three miles west of Rochester on the Burton road, was written Sunday morning when Mr. Patchett in a thoroughly premeditated manner attempted to commit suicide by eating a quantity of strychnine, which he spread on a pancake at breakfast.

The Patchett family formerly lived on a farm north of Winamac.

Both because of the fact that he did not take quite enough of the poison, although he had 60 grains of it in a bottle, enough to kill a dozen men, and because medical aid was summoned, the suicide was a failure and although still in a weakened condition the would-be self-victim is on the road to recovery, reports the Rochester Daily News.

That Mr. Patchett realized his mistake and that he would not care to repeat his performance was gleaned from the remark to one of the attending physicians, "If you get me out of this, 'Doc,' I'll never do it again."

In an investigation of the case the Daily News learned that a juvenile case, in which Jule and Fern Patchett, daughters of the would-be suicide, were the principals was scheduled before Judge Carr Monday. This was postponed because of the father's act. It was also learned that Jule Patchett, who last January was the state's star witness against Dale Knight, who was sent to Michigan City prison for from 5 to 21 years for rape, left her father's home several weeks ago and went to Rochester, where she remained in the care of Sheriff Kochenderfer. Recently she went to the home of Elmer Bradley, on the Burton road, where she has been making her home. Then on Saturday night, Fern, the younger sister, also left her parents' home and was later located with her sister at the Bradley home.

FORMER FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP MAN TRIES SUICIDE

Another chapter in the tragic life of the Preston M. Patchett family, well-known farmer people living three miles west of Rochester was written Sunday morning, when Mr. Patchett in a thoroughly premeditated manner attempted to commit suicide by eating a quantity of strychnine, which he spread on a pancake at breakfast. Both because of the fact that he did not take quite enough of the poison, although he had 60 grains of it in a bottle, enough to kill a dozen men and because medical aid was summoned the suicide was a failure and the would-be self victim is on the road to recovery.

That Mr. Patchett realized his mistake and that he would not care to repeat his performance was gleaned from the remark to one of the attending physicians of "if you'll get me out of this, Doc, I'll never do it again."

His wife was busy getting breakfast, Patchett remarked that he was not long for this earth. A few minutes later he suddenly became very ill and dispatched a young daughter to the Burton church, where his neighbor and friend, J. W. Rhinehart was at Sunday school. When Rhinehart reached the Patchett home Patchett confided the suicide plot in all its details.

As soon as medical aid was summoned, a hunt was instituted about the premises for a letter, which Patchett told Rhinehart he had written explaining his act and it was long after every nook and corner of the house and barn had been searched that the sealed letter was found in a box of stationery. This Patchett directed be turned over to Rhinehart and not opened until after his death and today, despite the fact that Prog Engels made a demand on Rhinehart he refused to turn the letter over without an order from the court. This step will likely be taken at once.

Just what prompted the suicide attempt has not been learned but it is thought likely the unopened letter will explain matters, if it is opened at the direction of the court.

FULTON SHERIFF HELD ON CRIMINAL ASSAULT CHARGES

ROCHESTER, Ind., Nov. 24.— Harley Kockenderfer, sheriff of Pulaski county, is at liberty under a $1,000 bond today following his arrest on an affidavit signed by Preston Patchett, charging the officer with criminal assault on Jewell Patchett, daughter of Preston Patchett. The father acted after the Fulton county grand jury which investigated the case, failed to return an indictment. Witnesses listed on the affidavit are Dale Knight, now serving a term in the Indiana prison for a previous assault on the girl; Frank Collel, Bern Stohn and Harry Strode, all prisoners in the Fulton county jail at the time the alleged assault is said to have taken place, also Patchett and the daughter, now Mrs. Harold Shannon of Winamac. Coroner Haimbaugh served the papers on the sheriff. The alleged attack is said to have taken place on May 12, 1924, which was prior to the girl's sixteenth birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Kockenderfer have issued previous statements denying the charges as instituted by Editor VanCamp of the Rochester News, a few weeks ago.

ROCHESTER MAYOR UNDER SERIOUS CRIMINAL CHARGE

Dr. Milo O. King, mayor of Rochester, was arrested Friday on a grand jury indictment charging him with having performed a criminal operation on a young lady of the Rochester vicinity. He gave $5,000 bond.

Robert Moonshower, a Rochester young man, was arrested at the same time, charged with having been the instigator of the crime.

In connection with the Fulton county grand jury's action the Rochester News says:

"It is generally understood that the grand jury, in the course of its deliberations, considered evidence against Sheriff Harley Kochenderfer, growing out of affidavits made by inmates of the jail during the time Jewell Patchett was confined within the jail or sheriff's residence as a ward of the Fulton county juvenile court. No indictment was returned in this case."

Chapter II—Learning that the Fulton county grand jury had failed to indict Sheriff Kochenderfer on the grounds of alleged immoral relations with his daughter, Jewell Patchett, now Mrs. Harold Shannon of Winamac, Preston Patchett Friday evening filed an affidavit with Pros. Atty. Marsh, at Plymouth, in which the sheriff stands charged with rape. The case was filed in the Fulton circuit court and Judge Carr at once issued a bench warrant for the arrest of Sheriff Kochenderfer, fixing the bond at $1,000.

Chapter III—Another angle was added the first of this week by the arrest of Preston Patchett on a charge of incest. The affidavit alleges that the crime was committed on May 13 of this year while Patchett's daughter Fern was helping him plow. He has given $1,000 bond for his appearance for trial.

The Patchett family formerly lived on a farm north of Winamac.

FORMER FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP FARMER IN JAIL AT ROCHESTER—ANOTHER CHAPTER IN WIERD HISTORY OF FAMILY

Additional slugs were poured into the Fulton county cess pool Saturday says the Rochester Sentinel when a new affidavit, this one made by Fern Patchett, 17, against her father, Preston Patchett, charging him with mistreating her as he had his other daughter, Jewell. Shortly afterwards he was arrested and placed in jail. His bond was placed at $1,000, but no one was willing to go on his bond and indications are that he will remain behind the bars until his trial comes up.

The girl stated that the act was committed on May 13, 1924, while they were in the field plowing corn at the Dr. Robbins farm in the Burton neighborhood.

The Patchett's formerly lived in Franklin township, this county on the state road.

PATCHETT TRIAL DATE SET

Preston Patchett, who is charged with incest by his daughter, Fern, will go on trial in the Fulton circuit court before a jury on January 23. Judge Carr decided Monday morning, after he had instructed the defendant's attorney to have his client plead on or before January 19. This case was filed after the special grand jury in October had returned with indictments against several Fulton county officials.

The Patchetts were former Franklin township residents.

Patchett girls commit perjury

Patchett's Daughters
"Back Up" on Former Charges Against Him

Charges against Preston Patchett of Rochester, under indictment for a serious offense alleged by his daughter Fern, were left without much foundation yesterday afternoon when the daughter Fern and also the daughter Mrs. Harold Shannon of Winamac went on the witness stand and repudiated statements against their father that they had previously made.

The trial started yesterday morning, in circuit court at Rochester, and a jury was obtained without much delay. Mrs. Shannon was one of the first witnesses. Before her marriage to Mr. Shannon a few months ago she was Miss Jewell Patchett of Rochester and was the prosecuting witness against Dale Knight in the trial that resulted in his conviction for rape. The Patchett family formerly lived north of Winamac.

On the stand yesterday Mrs. Shannon startled the prosecuting attorney and his assistant by completely denying many statements which she had made under oath in juvenile court nine months ago about her father's relations with her sister, even after the same had been read to her to refresh her memory. Mrs. Shannon did, however, tell of frequent quarrels which she had with her father and how she had left home on a number of occasions, on one of which she had found refuge in the jail. Mrs. Shannon also said that she had made false accusations against her father after promises had been made to her by an ex-officer of the county and another man.

Miss Fern Patchett was the next witness placed on the stand and her testimony, like that of her sister, was a complete surprise to the state. She denied that her father had ever had improper relations with her. Prosecutor Dexter then introduced in evidence a confession which the girl had made in her own handwriting telling of different occasions on which her father had wronged her.

Patchett girls commit perjury

2 WOMEN HELD FOR PERJURY THIS MORNING

Mrs. Shannon and Fern Patchett
Held as Result of Incest Trial
Testimony.

(Special to Pharos-Tribune)
ROCHESTER, Ind., Jan. 29—Steps that would result in the dismissal of the charges against Harley Kochenderfer, former county sheriff, charged in a grand jury indictment with improper relations with Jewell Patchett, and those against Dale Knight, now serving a sentence at the state prison received in court here upon statements of the same girl, were contemplated by officials here today as the result of testimony given in the case against Preston Patchett by Mrs. Jewell Patchett Shannon, daughter of the defendant, in the incest case that opened Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Shannon and Fern Patchett, her sister, with whom the father is charged with improper relations are held by authorities for perjury. Their arrest was affected this morning following the filing of charges by Prosecutor Galeman Dexter. The prosecutor's acts resulted from the instructions given the jury by Judge Carr to make a finding for the defendant in the Patchett incest case.

The judge based his instructions upon the complete denial of both Fern Patchett and Mrs. Jewell Shannon to the charges against their father and to the contents of the alleged confession signed by them several weeks ago and upon which the charges against their father were based.

Mrs. Shannon in her testimony in court also stated that she had made false signed confessions against a former county official and another man. Kochenderer and Knight are the only other local men against whom she had made charges in written confessions, according to local officials. Investigations into the activities that resulted in the filing of the charges in the several cases hanging around the pre-election "squabble" here to which the several charges are connected will be made by the county officials as the result of the development today and Wednesday, it is understood.

Girls jailed for perjury

Patchett Girls Go to Rochester Jail on Charges of Perjury

The Preston Patchett incest trial came to a quick termination last Thursday in the Fulton circuit court when Judge Carr upheld Attorney Campbell's motion to quash the charge, on the ground that the state had failed to make a case.

Prosecutor Galeman Dexter of Plymouth then filed charges of perjury against Fern Patchett, who made the affidavit against her father, and against Mrs. Harold Shannon of Winamac, sister of Miss Patchett. Both were put in the Fulton county jail, being unable to furnish the $500 bond required, but were later released when their bonds were guaranteed by Sherman Overmyer and Jess Chamberlain, both of Rochester.

After Fern Patchett had been placed on the stand Wednesday afternoon and repudiated the allegation in the affidavit which she had made against her father and denied the confession which she wrote after she had made the charge, Attorney Charles Campbell made a motion to dismiss his client, stating that the state had failed to introduce evidence to convict Mr. Patchett and further that they had introduced evidence to impeach their own witnesses.

Prosecutor Galeman Dexter and his associate counsel, Attorney L. M. Lauer of Plymouth contested the court's jurisdiction to quash the charge. But when court convened Thursday Prosecutor Dexter announced that the state had withdrawn its objection to the dismissal of the suit. Judge Carr then instructed the jury to retire and return a verdict of not guilty, which they did.

As soon as the jury's decision had been announced, Prosecutor Dexter then in a long speech severely condemned the plaintiff and her sister and said that he would file charges of perjury against both. Judge Carr commended the prosecutor on his attitude and said that he thought it was high time the two young ladies, who have been basking in the lime-light for the past year, were ruled off the stage.

The Rochester News-Sentinel states that the charge of perjury which was filed against Mrs. Harold Shannon of Winamac, who was formerly Jewell Patchett, will greatly weaken the state's case against ex-sheriff Harley Kochenderfer, charged with rape by Mrs. Shannon. This prediction was borne out Tuesday, when on motion of the prosecuting attorney the charge against Kochenderfer was dismissed.

The penalty for perjury is a two to fourteen years sentence. Both women probably will go on trial at the March term of court.

The Patchetts, it seems can not keep out of the court records of Fulton county. Tuesday morning Deputy Prosecutor Chas. Well! Well! Here Are the Patchetts in Limelight Again

Sheriff Fred Carr of Fulton county returned to Rochester one night last week from Terre Haute with Fern Patchett and Jewell Patchett Shannon, who were placed in the local jail for want of bondsmen. The girls were arrested in Terre Haute by the chief of police at the request of Hugh Van Meter and Preston Patchett, their bondsmen, who believed that the girls were attempting to jump their bond.

The Patchett girls were out on bond awaiting trial in the Fulton circuit court for perjury, and a few days before had left Kokomo with two young men with whom they were found in a boarding house in Terre Haute. The young men have also been arrested and charged with statutory offenses.

Preston Patchett, father of the Patchett sisters, and himself a central figure in cases filed in the Fulton circuit court, had a close call Thursday afternoon, when one of the team hitched to a wagon which he was riding was instantly killed and the other so seriously hurt that it had to be killed, by a west bound C. & O. local passenger train.

Patchett is uncertain whether he jumped or was knocked from his lofty perch to the ground. He is sure his defective hearing brought him very near death or serious injury.

The well-known farmer-litigant was enroute to a threshing. His wagon was piled high with grain, which partially obscured his vision. He did not hear the approaching train and drove onto the track in its path.—Rochester News-Sentinel.

Previous to the marriage last October her name was Patchett, and she has attained no little notoriety in this and Fulton counties in connection with various activities on the part of herself, her sister Fern and her father, Preston Patchett, formerly a resident of the vicinity north of Winamac. In his complaint Shannon, who is a resident of Franklin township, charges much improper conduct on the part of his wife, concluding with the statement that she was arrested with another man at Terre Haute in August and that she is now in jail at Rochester. NOT HIS PLAYMATES

One offense of which they had been suspected apparently can not be laid to the door of the much-chronicled Patchett sisters, now guests of the Fulton county jail, according to the Rochester News-Sentinel.

After the apprehension of a Kokomo youth at Lafayette and his slating on a charge of auto theft, authorities thought the Patchett girls must be the ones the youth referred to in connection with the incident. He said two girls had obtained a car in which he went for a joyride, the girls later leaving the car hidden in a gravel pit.

The car could not be found at the place he designated, but the officers investigated further by coming here to see the girls Sept. 8, who fitted the youths description.

Sunday the officers brought the youth here, but he said the girls were not the ones to whom he referred.

Pregnant Jewell leaves jail

PATCHETT GIRL

Soon to Become Mother,
Permitted to Leave the Jail

Mrs. Jewel Patchett Shannon was removed from the Fulton County jail early Tuesday morning under the direction of Dr. H. W. Taylor, and taken to her home in the outskirts of Rochester so that her child, expected shortly, would be born into freedom rather than the confinement of bars and walls. Fern Patchett, a sister, locked up with her sister on a perjury charge, remains in jail. Both have entered a defense as a poor person for a trial that is slated for the current term of circuit court.

Very recently the Patchett sisters and both about 18, were reported to have jumped bail, furnished them for the coming perjury trial and were vagrants in Elkhart. Investigation, however, proved that the girls had merely accompanied two young fellows in an automobile ride. This escapade drew much local comment with the result that the Patchett sisters' bondsmen withdrew their trusts. The sisters have been jailed in Rochester for about ten days.

The Patchetts, thus called in the vernacular of the court dockets, know the local bastile from several unsavory contacts. The last was when they caused Dale Knight to be locked up upon a rapino charge for which he was found guilty and sentenced to penal servitude.

Next came one of the sisters upon a night about a year ago to shoot at the county jail, because, she said, her father, Preston M. Patchett, was paying her too intimate attentions. While a waif at the bastile, then commanded by Sheriff Harley Kochenderfer, Fern Patchett declared that the sheriff had intimacies with her. A state case, with the girl as leading witness, was dismissed. Kochenderfer's political future in the region was rendered worthless. This entire affair smacked strongly of political intrigue.

The state then arraigned Preston M. Patchett for the alleged charge of intimacies with his daughter. Both upon sworn affidavits, declared this fact. At the time of the trial, the girls were mute. Thus the state's count against the father was defeated.

The perjury charge, now current at the circuit court term, is the state's reaction against having a state's witness defeat the state's ends. Perjury charges were filed against both girls for swearing to affidavits that they as good as declared false.

PATCHETT GIRLS FREE

Prosecutor Galeman Dexter of Plymouth, Tuesday made a motion in the Fulton circuit court to dismiss charges of perjury entered several months ago against Mrs. Jewell Patchett Shannon of Winamac, and her sister, Miss Fern Patchett, reports the Rochester Sentinel. The motion was based by the prosecutor on the grounds that the girls had spent enough time in jail awaiting trial for sufficient punishment. The request was sustained by Special Judge Hurd Hurst of Peru.

The charges against the two Patchett sisters were filed after they had refused to testify in court against their father Preston Patchett after they had made an affidavit charging him with a statutory offense. The cases have been postponed several times and on two different occasions the girls' bondsmen surrendered them. On each one of these times the Patchett sisters spent long periods of time in the Fulton county jail.

Jewell didn't 'marry up'

Harold Shannon, who was arrested a few days ago on a charge of selling mortgaged property, pleaded guilty to the charge in circuit court the latter part of last week and was fined $50. He had sold a horse to John Underwood, knowing that Kokomo parties held a mortgage on it, and was working for Underwood to pay off the debt. When he "turned up missing" one morning, Underwood notified authorities and the arrest followed. It appeared that Shannon had borrowed money on the horse for the benefit of his wife's relatives, members of the Traver family. Paul Behnke, for whom Shannon is now working, enabled him to secure the money to pay the mortgage on the horse and the fine was suspended.

Mrs. Flynn who now lives with her parents, at Hebron, alleges her husband whom she married on March 20, 1923 deserted her while she was pregnant and without making any provision for her support on December 29, 1925. The plaintiff sets forth that she was compelled to go to the home of her parents four days later to live.

Mrs. Flynn says the defendant is guilty of cruel and inhuman treatment in that he gave her no attention at all but spent his time with Fern Patchett. Mrs. Flynn accuses her husband with associating with Miss Patchett and with other women.

The body of Ray "Foxy" Flynn, a Rochester man twenty-five years of age, was found along the state highway about two miles north of that city early Sunday morning. Flynn had been killed by a shot through the heart from a .38 calibre revolver.

The body was lying about two feet outside the used portion of the highway, and the absence of tracks near it led to the belief that it was dropped there from the running board of a car.

A driver who passed the spot about 2:30 Sunday morning saw what he took to be a pile of old clothes lying along the roadway. It is presumed that what he saw was Flynn's body, and that it was placed there some time before. The last trace of Flynn alive was about 9 o'clock Saturday night, when he was seen on the street in Rochester with a stranger.

Flynn, who was a butcher by trade, had been employed with an ice company for several months. On Tuesday of last week, says the Rochester News-Sentinel, he was released from the county jail when he had completed serving a term for contempt of court for failure to make payments for the support of his divorced wife and two young children, who now reside in Hebron. It was also learned that three weeks ago he was arrested at East Chicago, at which time he was accompanied by two sixteen year old Rochester girls.

Pulaski County Sheriff Called.

"The officers are at work," added the Rochester paper in its Monday issue, "on several clues, in one of which the eternal triangle looms up as a possible motive and in this connection the names of the well known Patchett sisters, Miss Fern and Mrs. Harold Shannon, and the latter's husband, are slated for a probing by the officers working on the case. Harold Shannon is being sought at Medaryville, Ind., by the sheriff of Winamac today. If apprehended he will be summoned before Prosecutor Fred McClurg."

In connection with this feature of the case, Sheriff Kopkey states that he was requested on Sunday to locate Shannon, and found that he was working on the west side of this county. Officials at Rochester were notified of this fact, and were asked if they had a warrant for Shannon's arrest, but said they did not care to question him at this time. The matter was then dropped by Sheriff Kopkey.

It was first thought, said a later report from Rochester, that the unknown stranger was Harold Shannon, but this was found to be erroneous.

Another possibility that loomed up in the process of probing was that an attempt was made to hi-jack a rum-runner, and that this effort resulted in a fatality to the attackers. Substantiating this assumption, the founders of this claim point to the fact that a handkerchief worn about the slain man's neck might have been used for the purpose of a mask.

'Foxy's' death a mystery

Rochester Murder Is Still a Mystery; 'Triangle' Scented

The "break" in the Flynn murder mystery case which every one has been anxiously awaiting still remains in the offing, declared the Rochester News-Sentinel in its Monday issue. Many local people have made the assertion that the officers are at their string's end and the Flynn killing will always remain unsolved. Whether or not they are right in this assumption will be known within the next few weeks.

Just what Prosecutor Fred McClurg and County Sheriff Fred Carr accomplished on their trip out of this city last Saturday is unknown. They did state their business was pertaining to the solution of the recent murder. If their trip was made for the purpose of bringing the "stranger" in whose company Flynn was seen on the night he was killed, it surely proved futile as there have been no new boarders added to the county jail's list.

Another report current this morning was that they were awaiting the return of the revolver and finger print plates from an Indianapolis detective agency. When quizzed the authorities again stated they had nothing to make public.

In yesterday's issue the Rochester paper said: "It developed that Flynn had been brooding over the possibility of being killed by a certain 'gang' for several days before the fatal night. Strange noises had been heard around the Flynn home on two different occasions preceding the slaying of Flynn. During Flynn's stay in the local jail it is alleged by his closest associates, that interviews were held with the confined man, to prevent his 'quaking' in a recent fur theft which was committed at the south edge of Rochester.

"The above supposition is but one of the two possible motives for the killing of 'Foxy' as advanced by members of the Flynn household. The other angle is the Shannon-Patchett-Flynn triangle. Flynn was known to be exceptionally friendly with both of the Patchett sisters; one a Miss Fern, who is at present residing at the Flynn home, and the other the estranged wife of Harold Shannon, a former resident of Winamac. Flynn on numerous occasions was said to have stated he feared Shannon would 'get' him.

"Mrs. Shannon resides at Logansport, and on the night that the murder was committed in this city, three men came up on the porch of her home and sought 'Bud' Knight. Knight, it was stated, was in the house at that time but sensing trouble did not answer to the knocks on the door. Relatives of Flynn advance the theory that the men then came on to this city and may have taken 'Foxy' for a ride."

Paul Patchett Given Term in Reformatory

Paul Patchett of Monon, formerly a resident of the Winamac vicinity and later of Rochester, was given a reformatory sentence of two to fourteen years Monday morning by Judge John Smith in the Cass circuit court after the defendant had pleaded guilty to a charge of issuing fraudulent checks. Patchett has been in jail at Logansport for the past three months. His arrest came after he had posed as a federal prohibition agent. Patchett is wanted at Kewanna for writing bad checks and in other towns and cities in Cass and Fulton counties on the same charge. Sheriff William Zerbe took Patchett to the reformatory Tuesday.

JURY FAILS TO AGREE IN PATCHETT DAMAGE TRIAL

A jury disagreement was the outcome of a damage suit tried at Logansport last week in which Preston Patchett, formerly living north of Winamac but now living west of Fulton, had sued the C. & O. railway for $20,000 damages for alleged personal injuries. The jury was discharged by Judge John Smith on Sunday evening, when it reported that no agreement could be reached after 25 hours' deliberation.

The suit had been filed by Patchett for injuries which he received when a team and wagon in his charge were struck by a C. & O. freight train west of Fulton in August, 1925. Patchett declared that he had received permanent injuries in the accident.

Many doctors testified for both the plaintiff and the defendant. Their opinions differed greatly as to the extent of the plaintiff's injuries. The jury on Friday was taken to the railroad crossing by Sheriff William Zerbe, where they made a personal inspection of the ground.

WEEK'S NEWS AT THE COURT-HOUSE

Damage Suit by Patchett Against C. & O. on Trial by Jury.

A suit for damages brought by Preston M. Patchett against the C. & O. Railway went on trial in circuit court yesterday, before a jury. Judge Ralph McClurg of Monticello is sitting as special judge. It is expected that the trial will require all the remainder of this week and two or more days of next week.

The claim is for damages which Patchett alleges he sustained when a wagon in which he rode was struck by a train on the C. & O. near Fulton. Patchett, who formerly lived north of Winamac, was then a resident of Fulton county. He now lives near Monon. The case was originally started in the Fulton circuit court, taken to Cass on a change of venue and later sent to this county.

The jury is composed of Leo Hoover, Herman Bremer, Frank Overmyer, Charles Sutton, Isadore Podell, Urban Wank, Frank Marker, Fritz Weltzin, Oscar Lowry, George Metz, Stacy Bonnell and Frank Hummel. Several attorneys from other courts are here for the case, including Frank L. Dukes of Chicago, formerly of Winamac. He is an attorney for the railway, as are also Messrs. Cole of Peru and Bernetha of Rochester. Representing the plaintiff are Campbell & Emmons of Rochester and Horner & Thompson of Winamac.

WEEK'S NEWS AT THE COURT-HOUSE

The December term of circuit court ended Saturday, and Judge W. C. Pentecost left at once for Miami Beach, Florida, to spend two weeks with Mrs. Pentecost and their daughter, who have been there since autumn. Don Laramore, court stenographer, had planned to accompany the judge on the southern motor trip, but was unable to leave because the Patchett damage suit against the C. & O. railway was continued over into this week. Judge Ralph McClurg of Monticello is sitting as special judge in that case.

It was expected Wednesday that the hearing of evidence in the Patchett case would be nearly or quite completed by evening, and that court would then adjourn to Friday. Some of the attorneys suggested to the judge that it would be nice to include the day before Christmas in the vacation, but the judge left it to the jurymen and they announced that they would rather work Wednesday and thus reach the end of the session that much sooner.

VERDICT FOR $5,500.

A verdict awarding damages in the sum of $5,500 was returned Saturday forenoon by the jury which heard the suit brought by Preston Patchett against the C. & O. railway. It was stated that the railway company will appeal the case to the supreme court.

The evidence in the case was concluded last Wednesday afternoon. A recess was taken over Christmas Day, arguments of the attorneys heard on Friday, and the case given to the jury about 6 o'clock that evening. At least one juryman was said to have favored an award of about $10,000, and it was understood that the final figure was in the nature of a compromise after about sixteen hours' deliberation.

Patchett now lives near Monon but formerly lived north of Winamac. The family moved from here to Fulton county, and in 1925 a train struck a team which Patchett was driving across the C. & O. tracks. He filed suit for loss of the horses and for personal injuries. It was sent to Cass county on a change of venue, where the jury disagreed. The transfer to this county followed.

Six persons, said to be members of a gang that numbers at least twelve, are held in jail here and at Plymouth as a result of discovery of $3,000 loot in a farm barn south of Plymouth Monday night. The merchandise has been identified as a part of that stolen from railroad cars here and at other points along the Wabash and Pennsylvania railroads. Police officers of these systems announce.

Those held are Paul Patchett 26; Mrs. Jewell Patchett Knight 22, a sister of Paul, both of Rochester; Cecil Smith 32, Earl Smith 39; Harry Gleason 28, and Burt Wolfe 34, all of Logansport.

Earl Smith is held at Plymouth while the others are in the local jail. Patchett has been in custody for three weeks and the others were arrested following the finding of the loot Monday night.

The hidden merchandise was located in a barn on the Fred Osborn farm, six miles south of Plymouth. Osborn, a Plymouth barber, and his wife were not taken into custody.

Police officers of the two railroads working in conjunction with Marshall county authorities made the discovery on tips said to have been obtained from various sources.

Patchett confessed to some of the thefts but did not implicate others now in custody, investigators report.

Earl Smith one of the alleged gang was released from custody at South Bend a few days ago on a $1000 bond awaiting trial for alleged theft of milk bottles. He is said to have had several hundred milk bottles in his possession at the time which officers say he admitted were stolen.

Woman, Brother, Sweetheart Held for Rail Thefts

Paul Patchett and his sister, Mrs. Jewel Patchett Knight, formerly residents of Winamac and vicinity, and Cecil Smith of Logansport, who was wounded in a sheriff's battle with rum runners north of Winamac four years ago, are members of a group of six persons under arrest for railway robberies at Plymouth and Logansport.

The arrests were made by William Strable and other Pennsylvania railway detectives after loot valued at $3,000 was discovered in a barn on the Fred Osborn farm, six miles south of Plymouth. The merchandise was identified as goods stolen from Pennsylvania and Wabash railway cars and included large quantities of gloves, dresses, shoes, blankets and other articles.

The other three persons under arrest are Earl Smith, Harry Gleason and Bert Wolfe, all of Logansport. Cecil Smith and Mrs. Knight are said to be sweethearts. She was formerly the wife of Harold Shannon and lived in Winamac for a time before they were divorced.

Paul Patchett, who recently completed a term in prison for car theft and impersonating a federal officer, was taken into custody by Logansport police for investigation. He was said to have had a Pennsylvania car seal in his pocket. Railway detectives were then notified.

Car Thefts Total $10,000.

FORMER RESIDENTS HELD IN ROBBERIES

A serious case of freight car robbing which has occupied officers of the Wabash and Pennsylvania railroads for several weeks was cracked wide open Tuesday with the arrest of eight of the alleged thieves and the recovery of $3,000 worth of loot.

Those arrested were Cecil Smith, Jewel Patchett Knight, Harry Gleason, Bert Wolfe, John Miller, Earl Smith, Paul Patchett and Harry Blake. All gave their homes as Logansport. Jewel Knight is a sister of Patchett. Charges were placed against the gang today.

The merchandise which included radios, wearing apparel, blankets, heaters, underwear, caps and a number of gloves, was found at Bass Lake and Plymouth. At the latter place several thousand dollars worth of loot was found.

Officers uncovered the gang when Smith made a trip to South Bend and traded several packages of gloves for gasoline. Several of the gang were already suspected but Patchett was arrested first and implicated some of the others. More than 30 cars have been robbed by the gang.

The Knight woman, it is said, is about to become a mother and efforts are being made to send her to the home of her parents near Monterey.

Patchett Loses Damage Verdict Against C. & O.

The Indiana appellate court has reversed a case tried in the Pulaski circuit court in which Preston Patchett was awarded a verdict for $5,500 in a damage suit against the C. & O. railway.

The higher court's decision reviews the evidence, which showed that Patchett was driving a team and a wagon northward on a road in Fulton county; that the view eastward toward the approaching train was badly obstructed until the driver reached the right-of-way, sixty-eight feet from the track; that on reaching the right-of-way he could see down the track about 150 feet; that Patchett testified that he looked down the track when he reached the right-of-way but not again until the front feet of his horses were on the south rail, when he saw the train and the collision occurred.

The court holds that Patchett was guilty of contributory negligence, and that the evidence was not sufficient to sustain the verdict.

Railroad ruling reversed and worse

The Indiana Appellate Court reversed a jury finding of the local court when it handed down a decision in favor of the defendant in the damage suit of Preston M. Patchett vs. C. & O. Railway. The local jury found for Mr. Patchett and awarded him $5,500 damages. The Appellate Court decision not only takes the $5,500 award from Mr. Patchett, but throws the cost of the case onto him also. The suit resulted from injuries sustained by Mr. Patchett when he was struck by a C. & O. train at a crossing north of Kewanna in 1929.

Re-Trial of Damage Suit

A damage suit dating back to the year 1925, in which Preston Patchett sought $10,000 damages for injuries sustained when his wagon was struck by a C. & O. train, has been set for re-trial here during the present term.

The suit was tried before a jury a little over three years ago and a verdict for $5,500 returned. In March of last year the Indiana appellate court reversed the case and upheld the railway's motion for a new trial.

Judge Ralph McClurg of Monticello sat as special judge at the trial here, but he has resigned from further participation in the case. Judge Pentecost presented a list of other judges from which the attorneys in the case will select a new special judge.

WEEK'S NEWS AT THE COURT HOUSE

Nine-Year Old Damage Suit Again on Trial, Patchett vs. C. & O.

A rail crossing crash that occurred nearly nine years ago is the basis of a damage suit on trial in circuit court this week. It is the $10,000 claim brought by Preston O. Patchett against the C. & O. railway, tried here once before, reversed by the state appellate court and sent back for re-trial.

Patchett's horses were killed, his wagon damaged and he was allegedly injured when his vehicle was struck by a train on a crossing near Fulton on August 20, 1925. A damage suit, filed in Fulton county a few months later, was venued from one court to another and finally tried here three years ago last January. The jury returned a verdict awarding him $5,500.

The railway company appealed and the higher court reversed the case a year ago last month. The re-trial was set for this week and Judge George Custer of Logansport appointed special judge. Judge Pentecost is at Logansport holding court for Judge Custer. The plaintiff's evidence was completed last evening and attorneys stated this morning that the trial will likely require the remainder of the week.

Woman on Jury.
Composing the jury are Miss Catherine Conway, Ralph Bishop, Oscar Simmermaker, Charles Reading, John C. Werner, Reinholt Lange, Ferdinand Seidel, Gilford Chapman, George Brown, Fred Fitz, John Bair and Charles Alberding.

Attorneys engaged in the trial include Charles Campbell and Charles Emmons of Rochester, and R. E. Thompson of this city, for the plaintiff; Harvey Cole of Peru, Harry Bernetha of Rochester and J. G. Reidelbach of Winamac, for the railway.

Mr. Patchett and wife now live in a small house on Miss Emma Hoch's farm northeast of Winamac, having moved there recently from Indian Creek township.

Preston wins!

Verdict for Patchett.

The jury which heard the damage suit of Preston M. Patchett against the C. & O. Railway returned a verdict Tuesday evening awarding the plaintiff $2,550. This is approximately one-half the sum awarded in a former verdict, which was later reversed by the appellate court.

The evidence in the case was concluded Saturday, and the jury was taken Monday to the scene of the accident near Fulton, where Patchett's team and wagon were struck by a train on a crossing nine years ago. He was injured. The railway's defense was that he could have seen the approaching train if he had looked carefully.

The jury took the case shortly after noon on Tuesday and returned the verdict about 8 o'clock that evening. Trial of the case began Monday of last week, with Judge George Custer of Logansport sitting as special judge.

WEEK'S NEWS AT THE COURT HOUSE

Judge Reidelbach Takes Up New Duties; Orders Jury for Next Week.

The 59th Indiana Judicial Circuit, comprising Pulaski county only, came into being Monday when the acts of the recent legislature were declared in effect by Governor Paul V. McNutt. The same day a commission was issued to John G. Reidelbach as judge of the court, whose first official act was to arrange for the drawing of a jury to serve next week.

The law establishing the new court provides that the first term shall begin on the Monday following the date on which the act became effective, which automatically postponed the formal opening of court to next Monday. Retrial of the damage suit brought by P. O. Patchett against the C. & O. railway is set to start that day, before George Stevens of Plymouth as special judge. Mr. Reidelbach has been an attorney in the case and is disqualified to sit as judge in it.

Reappointment of John Metz and Fred Borders as jury commissioners for this year was ordered by Judge Reidelbach upon assuming jurisdiction. They then drew the following names from the box for service during the coming term, and the petit jury was ordered to appear next Monday:

Grand Jurors.

Albert Brucker and Edward Engle of Tippecanoe; Dale Lowry of Monroe; John Anliker of Salem; Arthur Kroft of Rich Grove; Roland Leslin of Franklin.

Petit Jurors.

D. A. Skillen and Ray Clark of Van Buren; Herman Alberding of Monroe; Ed Horney of Beaver; Fred Hengle and Braxton Blasser of Rich Grove; Cecil Tiede of Salem; Wm. H. Kroft, Flem May and Charles Borders of Harrison; Roy A. Keller of Tippecanoe; Joseph E. Ryden of White Post.

WEEK'S NEWS AT THE COURT HOUSE

Ten-Year-Old Damage Suit on Trial Before Jury in Circuit Court.

The damage suit brought by P. M. Patchett against the C. & O. railway is on trial in circuit court here this week, with George Stevens of Plymouth sitting as special judge. It is based on an accident ten years ago the coming August, when Patchett's wagon was struck by a train on a crossing in Fulton county. A verdict awarded by a Fulton county jury some years ago was reversed by the appellate court, then the case was sent to this county. It was tried a year ago, when a jury returned a verdict awarding Patchett $2,550, but a new trial was granted.

Composing the jury are William H. Kroft, Fred Hengel, Flem May, D. A. Skillen, Clarence Barnett, Roy Keller, Braxton Blasser, Albert Brucker, Cecil McCay, Arthur P. Gumz, Charles Severns and Frank Allen.

After a number of those drawn for the regular jury panel had been excused when court opened Monday, Judge Reidelbach ordered an additional venire of twelve names to be drawn from the jury box. Four of those—Messrs. McCay, Severns, Gumz and Allen—were retained for the Patchett case. Other names in the venire were those of Edgar Vanaman, Edward Lewis, Charles G. Brucker, Urban Wank, A. K. Galbreath, Otto Snyder, A. H. Richardson and R. B. Howard.

Verdict for C. & O.

A verdict denying damages to Preston O. Patchett in his suit against the C. & O. railway was returned yesterday morning by the jury which had heard trial of the case through all of last week and, the fore part of this. Taking the case Tuesday afternoon, the jury reached a verdict about midnight and reported when court opened next morning.

In addition to hearing evidence on both sides of the case, the jury was taken to a crossing in Fulton county to view the scene of the accident, which occurred ten years ago. Patchett's wagon was struck by a train and he was injured. One of the railway's principal claims was that there was nothing to obstruct his view of the tracks as the train approached.

It was the third or fourth trial of the case, the appellate court having reversed the verdict returned in the Fulton circuit court, after which the case was sent here on change of venue.

A motion has been filed this week by attorneys for Preston M. Patchett Case Costs

A bill totalling $1,111.55 for the expense of trying the $10,000 damage suit of Preston Patchett against the C. & O. railroad has been sent to Fulton county, after having been figured up by Clerk D. C. Boulden.

The case was sent to Pulaski county for trial from Fulton county on a change of venue which had been asked by the plaintiff. The suit was filed several years ago after a team and wagon driven by Patchett had been struck by a train at a crossing near Fulton.

The suit was tried three times in the Pulaski circuit court before juries. The first jury gave Patchett a verdict for $5,500. The second gave him $2,500 and the third found for the railroad.

The bill for $1,111.55 covers the court costs for the last two trials. A bill in the sum of $574.70 for the first trial was previously rendered, making a total court cost of nearly $1,700. This does not include witness fees, but is the expense of operating the court during the time consumed, and is payable by the county in which the case originates.
