{This profile of my great uncle, George Phillips, starts with my knowledge of family history and expands with clippings from the two competing weekly newspapers of Pulaski County, Indiana in published during the 24-year period between 1924 and 1947. It ends with my recollections of George after my birth in 1947.}

"All well, but looking for the measles any time."

1908 – Bob(8), George(3), Bill(6), Julia(4), John(9) and Tom(1) Phillips - Star City, Indiana

In the first half of the 20th century, George Phillips lived a relatively regular life with two exceptions, the death of his new wife and the death of his younger brother during the Great Depression.

In 1905, George Phillips was born at home in Star City, a small farm town in northwestern Indiana. He was fifth of the seven children of John Clark "J.C." Phillips, a prominent grain dealer in Pulaski County, and Bertha Fay Reed Phillips. Five years earlier, the family had moved to Star City after Bertha's father purchased its grain elevator. J.C. and his father-in-law sold animal feed to farmers and bought their grain. Augers elevated the grain into tall silos where it was stored until other augers loaded it into boxcars parked along the adjacent railroad siding. The railroad took the grain to mills in Chicago and elsewhere in the Midwest for processing into food, particularly flour and cornmeal.

{Here begins George's story based on my newspaper clippings over the next 24 years.}

In 1924, George enrolled in high school in Long Beach, Calif. After his bout with pneumonia the year before, California was far from the brutal winters of the Midwest. During high school, he lived with Bertha's half-sister, Jess, and her husband, Billy

Meanwhile, Rose Hawkins, a family friend was completing her Home Economics degree at Indiana University. George's oldest brother, John, was also there, finishing medical school.

In 1928, George, now a high school graduate and likely working at the elevator, attended a basketball game in the small town of Stilwell, sixty miles north of Star City, where Rose coincidentally had started teaching.

In the spring of 1929, George, 24, and his brother, Bill, 27, bought a nearby farm to which Bill and his family moved. {Bill is my paternal grandfather.}

Rose spent that Thanksgiving with J.C.'s family, including George and other siblings living at home: Julia, 24, Tom, 21, and Mary, 19. In those days, unmarried adults frequently lived with the parents

During the next summer, George and Rose were likely also seeing each other in passing at Lake Winona, which is 60 miles east of Star City.

By spring of 1931, as the Great Depression started to affect their county, George and Bill sold their farm. In the fall, Rose was teaching home economics at the local high school.

Over the next few years, Rose frequently shared Thanksgiving dinner with George's family, and on at least one occasion, accompanied George and Tom to a baseball game in Chicago.

Rose had been a regular guest to the Phillips household and, in September 1934, she and George married in the rectory of her Roman Catholic church. (As a baptized Methodist, George would have been excluded from a traditional Catholic wedding in the church). After returning from a Canadian honeymoon and a stop at the Century of Progress Exhibition, aka "World's Fair", in Chicago, George and Rose settled into their own house in Star City.

Two weeks later, “[f]riends ... took them for a ride Friday evening in a truck over town and to Winamac.”¹ The ride was part of a “belling”, a rite for newlyweds. In years past, belling meant alcohol, firearms, and fireworks outside the bedroom window on the wedding night. But it was during Prohibition, and Star City didn’t have much of a rough crowd.

Star City was a small town, so George could walk to work at the elevator in less than 5 minutes, and for Rose, her school was just a block away. They probably ate lunch at home together most days. In those first weeks, George and Rose would have settled into a routine.

Just four months later in January 1935, Rose, first diagnosed with a sore throat related to a tooth infection, had contracted scarlet fever.

George’s brother, Dr. John Phillips, 36, came 60 miles from his home in Michigan City, IN., to review her case. Returning home Thursday with his wife, Fern, they had a serious car wreck on the January roads.

As Dr. John and Fern were being released from the hospital, Rose died back in Star City of kidney failure after a two-week battle. She was 34.

The day before her funeral and burial at the Catholic cemetery beside Rose’s church, “... the casket was placed at the [bay] window of the [J.C.] Phillips home and school children passed by in a body as a mark of respect.”²

Not only did George lose Rose, but also their unborn child. Rose was 3-months pregnant when she died according to her death certificate.

George’s friends were surely at a loss on how to help him. A few weeks later, they got George involved in a regional checkers tourney. {In the 24-year period of my research, this is the only reference to checkers in the two local weeklies, so I believe the tourney was created to help George. That’s how small communities roll.}. Over the next few weeks, George demonstrated that he was a strong member of the winning team.

By spring, George was confirmed in the Catholic church. (This would allow him to be buried beside Rose in the church cemetery. But that would never happen.)

By the summer of 1937, George was socially active again. Along with his father, George played “Donkey Baseball” for Star City against nearby Winamac, the county seat. As a charity fundraiser in the first half of the 20th century, communities could rent strings of donkeys. The beasts provided the locomotion for teams of community leaders as they played baseball or basketball games. The public readily bought tickets to see the spectacle. Later that fall, he also went to Mexico with two buddies.

Brothers in Summertime

1930s (early) - George and Tom Phillips - Star City IN

The end of winter in 1939 brought new tragedy to the Phillips family. While newspaper reports said George’s younger brother Tom, 28, contracted pneumonia, it was likely tuberculosis. After a three-month stay in a sanitarium in South Bend IN, about 70 miles to the north, Tom returned home under the care of a South Bend nurse, Elvina Wolf. Tom died that summer of tuberculosis. Serendipitously, after the death of this brother, George certainly found some comfort from Tom’s former nurse, Ms. Wolf. But the distance between her home in South Bend and his home in Star City likely doomed the relationship.

By the next spring, J.C. purchased another grain elevator in Hamlet, about 40 miles north of Star City, and made George its manager.

In summer of 1941, George, 36, married Helen Medbourn Hand, 29. She had a two-year-old son from a previous marriage and was very sociable and active in the community of Culver, 20 miles north of Star City. Initially living in Hamlet, by 1942, they were living in Knox, a larger town also about 30 miles north of Star City, and just a few miles from his elevator in Hamlet.

By the 1950s, George and Helen were back in Culver, living on the shore of Lake Maxinkuckee.

{Here ends George's story based on my newspaper clippings over the past 24 years and my own recollections begin.}

As a child in the 1950s, I loved spending summer weeks at the lake shore home of my great uncle and aunt, George and Helen. Their large house had a spacious living room fully-windowed overlooking the lake. With my cousin, Maurine, I swam near the dock and Helen took us about the lake in her motorboat. Those were great childhood memories.

My other recollections of George were summer afternoons on the lawn in Adirondack chairs at the Star City family home, now in the trust of George's older sister, Julia. After Bertha died in 1943 and J.C. died in 1944, Julia became the much-loved matriarch of the family.

George worked with his brother (and my grandfather), Bill, and sister, Julia, at the Star City elevator until it was sold in 1953.

My last recollection of George was visiting with him at his elevator in Winamac IN in the early 1960s.

George died in 1964 of a heart attack. Originally, buried in Culver, Helen had his body and headstone moved to the Phillips family west section of the Star City IOOF cemetery.

While George and my other elders were alive, I wish I'd have been more curious about their recollections of their lives in the first half of the 20th century.

At the time of Rose's death in 1935, the Phillips family members are:

- J.C. (64), the patriarch, owns a grain elevator in a small farm town in northwestern Indiana, and is married to Bertha (61). Their children are:
 - Dr. John (36), their oldest, is a physician. His wife, Fern (36), is a homemaker with two daughters, Joan (10) and Betty (8).
 - Bob (35), is a farmer living 20 miles south of Star City. His wife, Letha (34) is a homemaker with a son, Bobby (15).
 - Bill (33), works at the family grain elevator. His wife, Dorcas (32), is a homemaker with two sons, Billy (10) and Tommy (8).
 - Julia (31), their older daughter, is a primary school teacher.
 - George (30), works at the elevator.
 - Tom (28), their youngest son, works at the elevator.
 - Mary (26), their younger daughter, is also a primary school teacher. She will marry Garland Masterson in 1937 and have a daughter, Maurine, in 1948.
- Aunt Jess (49), Bertha's half-sister, lives in Long Beach CA with her husband, Uncle Billy Stephens (51).

6 FROM COUNTY TO GET I. U. DIPLOMAS

Pulaski county is represented in the list of candidates for degrees at the 98th annual commencement of Indiana university next Monday evening, June 6, by six students. They will receive their sheepskins following an address by Everett Sanders, distinguished Hoosier, who is secretary to President Coolidge and a member of the I. U. class of 1907.

The 1927 graduating class will number approximately 900. Tentative lists of seniors and post graduate students show that 802 diplomas will be awarded Monday evening at the twilight commencement in the Memorial stadium, and that about 125 additional seniors will be eligible to take part in the commencement ceremonies but will not actually receive their diplomas until next October after having completed a few necessary additional credit hours of work.

The graduates from Pulaski county, with their degrees and major subjects, are reported by the university as follows:

Francesville: Ida Huppert, graduate nurse; Harold Grover, doctor of medicine.

Medaryville: Charles D. Linton, B. S., medicine.

ROSE PHILLIPS, 29, OF STAR CITY, DIES

STAR CITY, Ind., Jan. 28—Mrs. Rose Phillips, 29, local high school teacher prior to her marriage to George Phillips on Sept. 19, 1934, died at her home here this morning at 10:30 o'clock after a two-week illness with scarlet fever.

Due to the nature of the disease which caused death the funeral will be private. It probably will be held Wednesday morning. Burial will be made in the Catholic cemetery at Pulaski.

Surviving with the husband who is co-proprietor with his father, John C. Phillips, of the Star City grain elevator, are three sisters, Mrs. Agnes Cook, of Sandusky, Ohio; Ursula Hawkins, Indianapolis teacher, and Esther Hawkins, Pulaski high school teacher; two brothers, John, at home, and Howard Hawkins, Indiana university scholar, and the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin A. Hawkins, who live on a farm west of here.

Rose dies

Former Teacher, Bride of Four Months, Dies

The Star City and Pulaski communities were deeply saddened Monday by the death that forenoon of Mrs. Rose Elizabeth Phillips, wife of George Phillips, at their home in Star City. She became ill several days ago, from ailments diagnosed as scarlet fever and uremic poisoning.

Previous to her marriage to Mr. Phillips last September she was Miss Rose Hawkins, prominent as teacher of home economics in the Star City schools, and had many friends who are sincerely grieved over her passing.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin A. Hawkins of Indian Creek township, she was born at Springfield, Ill., on September 22, 1901. As a girl she came to this county with the family, graduated from the Pulaski high school and later from Indiana university. She taught at Stillwell, Ind., then at Pulaski and Star City.

Surviving, besides the husband and parents, are sisters Mrs. Agnes Cook of Sandusky, Ohio; Miss Ursula Hawkins of Indianapolis, and Miss Esther, teaching at Pulaski; two brothers, John at home and Howard at Bloomington.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning at St. Joseph's church at Pulaski, conducted by Rev. R. H. Monnin, officiating minister at the wedding last autumn. Burial was in the Pulaski Catholic cemetery.

Rose dies

BELOVED TEACHER DIES AT STAR CITY

Mrs. George Phillips

Mrs. Rose Phillips, wife of George Phillips, of Star City, passed away at her home Monday morning at 10:25. Ill less than two weeks, death came as a result of scarlet fever and ureamic poisoning. The untimely death of this young and popular matron, was a distinct shock to her many friends who had hoped to the end for recovery from the dread disease.

Rose Elizabeth Hawkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hawkins, was born in Springfield, Ill., September 22, 1901. She, with the other members of her family, moved two miles west of Star City in 1909. She graduated from the Pulaski high school in 1922 and from Indiana University in 1927. She also attended school at Valparaiso and Winona. Entering the teaching profession, she taught at Pulaski, Stillwell and for the past three years had been home economics instructor in the Star City schools. On September 19, 1934, she was married to George A. Phillips, of Star City, in which place they made their home. She was a member of the Theta Phi Alpha, national Catholic sorority.

Surviving are the husband, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Hawkins; three sisters, Mrs. Agnes Cook, of Sandusky, O.; Ursula, of Indianapolis; Esther, of Star City, and two brothers, John, at home, and Howard, a student at Indiana University.

Because of the nature of the disease from which Mrs. Phillips died, burial services, conducted by Rev. R. H. Monnin, were held Wednesday morning at the Catholic church in Pulaski. Burial was made in the St. Joseph cemetery at Pulaski.

Tuesday afternoon the casket was placed at the window of the Phillips home and the school children passed by in a body as a mark of respect.

Doctor and Wife Hurt in Highway Accident

Dr. and Mrs. John Phillips of Michigan City, both formerly of Star City, were injured in an auto accident last Thursday evening while on their way home after a visit to relatives in this vicinity. Dr. Phillips had his right arm broken below the elbow and was cut by glass; Mrs. Phillips also received a number of lacerations, particularly about the throat, besides severe bruises.

Dr. Phillips had been called to Star City in consultation on the illness of his sister-in-law, Mrs. George Phillips. The doctor's wife accompanied him. They also stopped in Winamac for a brief visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank King. Later in the evening, when they had almost reached Michigan City, Dr. Phillips became confused by the lights of an approaching truck and drove his car into the banister of a concrete bridge. He had slowed down, it was stated, but the impact was sufficient to damage the car and injure both occupants.

Passersby took Dr. and Mrs. Phillips to a hospital at Michigan City. Subsequently, when garage-men went to get the car, it was found that instruments and medicines to the value of more than $100 had been stolen from the wrecked machine.

Dr. and Mrs. Phillips were able to return here Tuesday and to attend the funeral of Mrs. George Phillips yesterday, although complications sent Mrs. Phillips to bed at the home of her mother, Mrs. R. A. Phillips.

DR. JOHN PHILLIPS NEAR DEATH IN CRASH

A serious accident occurred on State Road 29 near Michigan City Thursday when Dr. and Mrs. John R. Phillips were returning to their home after having been to Star City, where the doctor had been called in consultation for Mrs. George Phillips. The roads from Laporte on north were in the storm district and were a glare of ice. At a narrow bridge, four miles from Michigan City, a truck coming from the city, crossed the bridge, but instead of pulling to the side, held the center of the road. To avoid a collision with the truck, the doctor pulled out and ran into the abutment of the bridge.

He was thrown against the steering wheel and suffered a broken right arm and nose and numerous cuts and bruises. Mrs. Phillips was thrown through the windshield and was rendered unconscious. Her face was bruised and cut, one cut under the chin, which required eleven stitches to close, barely missed the jugular vein.

Help soon came from passersby and Mrs. Phillips was taken to St. Anthony's hospital, where she regained consciousness. Dr. Phillips, though dazed from shock, was able to give some assistance in the case of Mrs. Phillips.

The car was completely demolished and the doctor's instrument case and medicine case, which were forgotten in the excitement, were stolen from the car.

The children, Joan and Betty, were in school, and had not made the trip with their parents. Dr. Phillips was able to come to Star City Monday for a brief while.

Checker Players Plan to Hold County Tourney

A few checker players have taken preliminary steps to form a Pulaski county checker club, expecting to hold a county tournament about the middle of March. They also hope to arrange for some inter-county tournaments, the five best players as determined by the county tournament to represent the county.

The cost is to be 10 cents per member to pay for a hall to hold the tournament and other expense. Visitors will be allowed to attend at the same price.

Temporary officers are Dr. E. J. Yocom, president; Dale Fritz, vice president, and Dr. W. L. Overholser, secretary-treasurer. Organization will be completed and permanent officers elected at the county tournament.

Checker Contest Brisk; Run-Off This Friday Eve

The checker tournament held in Legion hall last Friday evening had fifteen entrants. One dropped out after two games. To complete the contest each player played 27 games. The ten highest were: First, George F. Kistler, Star City, 20½ games; second, Alfred Bramble and Harry Adams, tied with 17½; third, D. P. Surber, Star City and Dr. W. L. Overholser tied with 16 each, although Dr. Overholser has two games to play to complete the 27. George Phillips of Star City holds fourth place with 15½ games; R. L. Helvie of Star City, fifth place with 15; Dale Fritz and Don Boulden hold sixth place with 10 each; William Henry, seventh with 9½ with two games to complete.

These ten men are to play a contest of two games with each other beginning at 7:00 o'clock Friday evening of this week, at Legion hall. The umpire will have time keepers and time will be called according to the rules.

The five highest in this contest will play the five highest men of Starke county Friday evening, March 22. The public is invited to watch this contest.

Baseball Fans to Cavort in Donkey Games

A donkey baseball game, with players from Winamac and Star City competing against each other, is to be staged under the flood lights in the Winamac ball park next Tuesday evening, August 3, under auspices of the local American Legion post for benefit of the Junior Legion baseball league.

People who remember the laughs afforded by a donkey basketball game in the school gym a few months ago are looking forward to another hilarious time when the little animals are used in an outdoor baseball game.

Following are the lists of prospective players:

Star City Cubs—Frank Stephens, Charles Kistler, Billy Geier, Fred Schultz, Butch Bird, K. A. Groom, Albert Blakely, George Phillips, Sam Simmermaker, Link Williams, Simon Weaver, John Phillips, Merl Whipple, Rickey DeArmond, Bob Compton, John King, Tom Densborn, Everett Purkey, George Kistler, Skinney Brown.

Donkey baseball, seasonal successor to donkey basketball, which proved so popular here last April, will be played at the ball park Tuesday evening, beginning at 8:15.

Two teams of softball artists, known as the Star City Cubs and Winamac Hot Shots, will face each other in a battle royal.

To those who attended the donkey basketball game, nothing more need be said, but to those who missed that, we might mention that this is a hilarious entertainment, where the bigger they are the harder they fall.

Members of the two teams, which include plenty of substitutes, are as follows:
